LINERS IN OCEAN COLLISION

COLLISION OF STEAMSHIPS OFF CHERBOURG, IN WHICH 14 LIVES WERE LOST, DRAWN FROM CABLED DESCRIPTION

KAISER WILHELM DER GROSSE, WHICH CRASHED WITH THE ORINOCO

MANY KILLED AS BIG SHIPS CRASH AT SEA

Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and Orinoco Come Together in Dense Fog at Night Off Coast of France—German Ship Badly Damaged and Passengers in Wild Frenzy.

Special Cable to Boston American.

CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 22.—Fourteen persons are dead or missing and a score are seriously injured as a result of the collision in the open sea in the dense fog between the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the Royal Mail steamer Orinoco.

Passengers in Wild Panic.

The two great vessels crashed together last evening off this port, the Orinoco tearing a great hole in the side of the Kaiser and doing much damage, estimated at $200,000. The wildest excitement followed the accident, and in their frenzy some of the passengers and crew threw themselves into the sea.

Each captain places the responsibility on the other, but the facts seem to indicate that the Orinoco attempted to cross the Kaiser's bow, expecting the latter to pass to the port.

Instead the Kaiser kept on her course, and the British boat crashed into the Kaiser well forward, grinding into the steerage and causing loss of life in the closely-packed compartment. A great hole twelve feet wide was made in the Kaiser and the stem of the Orinoco above the water line was torn away.

FIVE INSTANTLY KILLED.

Three men and two girls, steerage passengers, on the Kaiser, were instantly killed, and a dozen seriously, some fatally, injured. Four members of the crew of the Orinoco were killed and seven seriously injured. Five others were knocked overboard. It is believed that these men were drowned, although there is a possibility that they may have been picked up.

The Kaiser's death list is as follows:
Kouceliff, Anna, Russia.
Steurer, Marie, Russia.
Muhlbeig, George, Russia.
Zimbelmann, Michel, Russia.
Croisaant, Samuel, Russia.

WILD WITH FRIGHT.

When the steerage passengers were startled by the awful crash and then saw the bow of the Orinoco poking through the side of their own vessel, they became wild with fright. The cries of the wounded added to the frenzy of the nearly 1,200 souls aboard. It was impossible to control the hundreds in the steerage, and they made a frantic dash for the boats, which were manned and lowered to the sea.

The collision occurred at 8:10 o'clock and the density of the fog made it impossible to distinguish anything. In the great confusion that followed the accident nothing like an intelligent idea of what had occurred could be ascertained, and all of the passengers thought the Kaiser was about to sink.

Rockets were fired for help, and this confirmed the passengers in their belief that they were in danger of death. Boats were reached the scene, and the wounded were transferred to the Orinoco, where they were taken to hospitals and treated. The Kaiser was leaving the roadstead and the Orinoco was entering when they crashed together.

The Kaiser Wilhelm got back into port to-day. The Kaiser Wilhelm is badly damaged and will require extensive repairs.

Passengers on the Kaiser Wilhelm will be transferred to La Lorraine and the St. Paul, which sail on Saturday.

Though small boats patrolled the waters for several hours, no trace was found of the five men missing from the crew of the Orinoco.

PEARY AND PARTY AT PORT AUX BASQUES

Special to the Boston American.

SYDNEY, N. S., Nov. 22.—Visibly weakened and looking some, the Peary ship Roosevelt, with everybody on board well and happy, made Port Aux Basques at 11 o'clock. "With the least delay possible," Commander Peary says, "we shall sail for Sydney." The Roosevelt is in no condition to stand anything like rough weather.

Storm signals are out hereabouts, and it is not believed in Sydney that the Peary boat will reach North Sydney before Friday night or Saturday morning. Because of the lack of coaling facilities at Port Aux Basques the Roosevelt must be hand-loaded.

Peary does not mean to Winter the Roosevelt at North Sydney, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. It was said by members of the party today that it is the explorer's intention to get the Roosevelt to New York for exhibition purposes in as nearly her present condition as may be possible. Some repairs may have to be made here with that end in view, and it is not at all unlikely that new men will be shipped.

Mrs. Peary will await her husband here. She has scarcely left her room at the hotel.

There are no Sunday trains in this region and under the most favorable circumstances it will be next week before Mr. and Mrs. Peary and the officers who go with them can expect to reach the United States.

LISTS HAVE 112,578 NAMES.

Registration for Boston's city election closed yesterday. The ballot lists contain the names of 112,578 as against 113,788 last year, when the fight was between Fitzgerald and Donovan was on.

HAPPY AFTER TRAGEDY

Witnesses at Grace Brown Murder Trial Tell of Actions of the Accused.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—In the trial of Chester Gillette, charged with the murder of Grace Brown, this forenoon's session was devoted to a recital of the movements of Gillette between the time of the alleged murder and his capture.

He crossed through the forest from Big Moose Lake, where Grace Brown lay dead, to Eagle Bay—seven miles. He reached Eagle Bay late in the evening, crossed Fourth Lake on a steamer, and was assigned to room twenty-four at Arrowhead Hotel, at the head of the Fourth Lake. By mistake the bellboy, according to his testimony on the stand to-day, took him to room twenty-three by mistake.

"Then what did you do?" asked the District Attorney.

"I moved him."

"Did you carry his suit case?"

"I did."

"Was it wet?"

"It was not."

It was proved by witnesses that Gillette had arranged to have mail sent to Eagle Bay, and entering the postoffice at Inlet, where the Arrowhead Hotel is located, he wrote a card to the postmaster at Eagle Bay asking that his mail be forwarded.

During no drinks and asking for a place to sleep, two woodsmen named in attempt to gain an entrance into the cricket Gillette early today, but were thrown off by Deputy Sheriff Richard, son of Sheriff Richard, who ditched that the men was the man to attack Gillette and kill him in his cell.

When Richard told his father what had happened, he ordered a guard to watch at Gillette's cell door until time to go to court. Richard said that he had noticed the two men hanging around the jail yard all afternoon.

Girl's Skull Fractured.

The defense will call Dwight Spurrey, a contractor of Old Forge, as one of its chief witnesses. He will testify that he carried the drowned body of Grace Brown

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22—It cost the Republican party, officially, according to the report made here, $332,011 to defeat William R. Hearst for Governor of New York.

As the law compels some kind of a return, the men of the Plunderbund of easy consciences were rushed to cover up the manner of the campaign and the methods employed, over $1,000,000 was actually required to beat Hughes.

First in the list of contributors in the official statement filed here comes J. Pierpont Morgan, with $20,000 to his credit. How this money went there is no means of ascertaining from the report filed.

Levi P. Morton, once Vice-President, and in an every Republican graft for the last half-century, let loose with $20,000 more.

Rockefeller, Jr., in List.

Timothy L. Woodruff, agent of the Insurance Trust, was also generous to the poor. He paid $10,000 in one instalment and loaned the Plunderbund $20,000, which he never expects to see again.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who on week days makes money out of oil and teaches Sunday school the other day, gave up $5,000.

The Plunderbund also heard from the elder Rockefeller, but how much is not made known.

Andrew Carnegie, the hero of Homestead and an iron workers' strike of not long ago, who crushed organized labor, stopped giving away libraries for a moment and sent a check for $5,000 to help Hughes.

Chauncey M. Depew, counsel for the Van derbilts and United States Senator, gave $2,000 of his hard earnings.

Steel Trust Men Chip In.

John W. Gates, Wall street speculator and railroad manipulator, gave $2,500.

James B. Ford, active agent of Thomas F. Ryan in the Rubber Trust, handed over $2,500.

Charles M. Schwab, former head of the Steel Trust, and W. E. Corey, now president of that vast monopoly, chipped in $2,000 each, while Jacob Schiff, the banker, gave a like sum. John Jacob Astor and Cornelius Vanderbilt gave $1,000 each to the Republican State committee, and the same amount to the county committee.

RAILROADS TO RAISE WAGES.

DENVER, Nov. 22.—Colorado railroads are preparing to follow the example set by Eastern roads, in the matter of raising wages, and within a short time thousands of men employed on the lines in the State will receive an increase of ten per cent. in their pay.

FINE CENTRAL $18,000 MORE FOR REBATES

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Judge Holt in the United States Circuit Court today imposed an additional fine of $18,000 on the New York Central Railroad Company for its rebates to the Sugar Trust. This makes a total of $120,000 in fines that have been imposed on the New York Central railroad as the result of prosecution for giving rebates due to the evidence furnished by William R. Hearst.

An additional fine of $5,000 imposed upon General Traffic Manager Pomeroy of New York Central brings the total fines of the road for violation of the rebate law to $132,000.

Sugar Sentence Postponed.

The Sugar Trust, which was convicted on the same day that the railroad company was adjudged guilty was also to have been sentenced today, but owing to the absence of Joseph H. Choate, who is in Philadelphia, sentence was postponed until next Tuesday when Mr. Choate will make an appeal for arrest of judgment in the sugar case.

In his argument before Judge Holt, Assistant U. S. Att'y. Fox, who represented the New York Central Company, objected to the admission by Paul Morton to Senator La Follette and Congressman Esch, the possession of the National government, which resulted in absolving Morton.

"Once more, once again," said Mr. Fox, "our President, Mr. Roosevelt, declared that this kind of conviction had become a dead letter. This was in the case of Arthur A. Smith & Co. In that case one of the officials of the company admitted on the witness stand that he had given rebates.

Was in President's Cabinet.

"He was a member of the President's cabinet, and the chief executive in the case stopped the Department of Justice from taking any action.

"I cannot see why if a railroad in the Southwest is allowed to go free a railroad in the East, the New York Central, should be punished because it has no friends near the throne."

Judge Holt seemed to pay little attention to the arguments, and immediately at its close imposed sentence.

Women Flock to New York Court to Hear Trial of Singer; Policeman Describes

CARUSO'S HYSTERICAL PLEA: 'I INTENDED NO HARM'

SKETCHES OF CARUSO AND PROMINENT FIGURES AT TRIAL, MADE IN COURTROOM

Tenor Appears Again To-day, Hearing on Charge of Insulting Mrs. Graham in Central Park Being Unfinished—Accuser Not Present at Proceedings.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Enrico Caruso, the great tenor, who was in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday charged with having insulted women in Central Park, appears again there to-day, while the case against him is resumed.

Four witnesses have been examined, including the famous singer and Detective Cain who made the arrest. Never before was such a scene in the old dingy court room, and it is expected that it will be duplicated to-day. Men and women of fashion, singers, actresses, artists, managers, policemen and lawyers jammed the room.

But the strangest sight of all was that which Caruso saw as he faced the magistrate and peered through the windows to the left of the room. Here were scores of faces pinned against the panes, some in uniform and wearing the caps of prison keepers, beside them pale and women in white duck suits of prison "trusties." The latter were ranged upon the fire escapes and ladders affixed to the walls outside the prison. From these "boxes" they witnessed the remarkable court scene.

Thousands Stand Outside.

Beyond the court-room door, in a line that stretched into the street, were several thousand men and women who had been unable to push their way inside the chamber of justice.

Caruso was nervous when he faced this remarkable audience. He showed relief when he remarked to his counsel that the woman who accused him was not present.

Judge Dittenhoefer nodded his head. Here carried became emphatic, turned to the prisoner and whispered:

"Of course she is not here. It is a false charge."

A dead hush fell upon the scene. Policeman Cain was called. He is a typical policeman, fresh of cheek from the open air of the park and loud of voice. He testified in a matter-of-fact way. He said the trouble started before the monkey cage. Then he told of the happenings in front of the snake cage.

As Cain continued great beads of perspiration rolled down the tenor's face. Cain was very graphic as he described how Caruso put his hands in his long coat pockets, coyly slid his fingers through an aperture and touched the woman at his side.

Caruso asserted that he did not understand English, yet as Cain told his story he listened attentively, shrugged his shoulders and whispered to his counsel how impossible it all was, and what a mistake had been made.

Caruso Laughs Excitedly.

An audible "Ah!" swept through the courtroom when Cain said he had not been able to find Mrs. Hannah Graham, who made the charge against Caruso. Caruso laughed excitedly. Beside him now was standing Viafora, the Italian artist and personal friend of the accused. His nimble fingers fairly flew as with pencil he sketched every new attitude or facial grimace of his friend. As he drew he tested his sketch book on top of his silk hat. Caruso scanned some of the drawings, scowled once or twice and muttered a few words in his native tongue to the artist.

After Cain had completed his story Jeremiah McCarthy, a ticket seller when the ball season is on and a man of leisure at other times, was called to the witness stand. He corroborated Cain's story in part. Cain said Caruso had thrust the cane in his right-hand coat pocket. McCarthy said it was the left hand that was holding the cane. He was positive.

This discrepancy however was explained when Caruso testified in his own behalf. He admitted he had seen Mrs. Graham, the woman who had made the charge against him in the park. She had smiled at him, he said, as he entered the monkey house. He was pressed by Mathot to explain. Caruso said it was a very significant smile. Mathot wanted to know what he meant by significant. The accused hemmed and hawed, and finally said it was the kind of a smile that made him think the woman was a questionable character.

Of "Questionable Character."

Mathot objected to the way the interpreter used the word "questionable." Being a finished Italian scholar, Mathot insisted that what Caruso said was that the woman was of an "equivocal" character, he thought." The interpreter insisted that he was right, and the answer was put down as the interpreter translated it.

The rest of the testimony on the part of the State was from policemen. It was mainly corroborative of the minor details of the case, except that portion of it given by Captain Stephenson, who asserted that when Caruso was taken to the Arsenal station house after the charge had been made against him the singer turned to Mrs. Graham and said, wringing his hands hysterically: "Ah, madame, I did not intend any harm; it was all a mistake."

Judge Dittenhoefer got Stephenson to swear that he was not sure whether Caruso said this to Mrs. Graham or the police sergeant who was behind the desk. When pressed he said he thought Caruso said it to both of them.

Caruso not a Good Witness.

The second impression when the case was adjourned for the day was that Caruso had not made a very good witness for himself.

As Caruso left the court room and descended the stairway the throng outside, thinking he had been convicted and sentenced, cried "Viva Caruso! Viva Italiano!" Hundreds of fellow-countrymen crowded around him, and the police were forced to make a passage-way for the singer and Cain. The case will be resumed to-morrow afternoon, when Commissioner Mazet will continue his cross-examination of Caruso.

5 FIREMEN'S LIVES PUT IN PERIL BY AN EEL

SUDDENLY STOPPED THEIR HOSE AS THEY FOUGHT FLAMES ON FIRE ESCAPE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—A three-foot eel came within an ace of causing the death in the most horrible manner imaginable of Captain Roach and four other firemen fighting a serious tenement house blaze, one of the incendiary fires in the same neighborhood to-day.

The men had taken a position on a fire escape on the fifth floor. The flames spread and cut off their escape, but they felt safe as they were keeping the flames back with a stream of water. Suddenly the water was cut off. The flames swept forward. A cry of terror went up from the trapped men. To jump meant certain death. To stay meant cremation—to be broiled with the fire escape as a gridiron.

In a moment four streams of water were playing on the men to keep them from roasting. An extension ladder was run up and they were rescued. Search for the reason for the cutting off of the water disclosed the eel lodged in one section of the hose.

The blaze was one of six fires started in the same district to-day, three of which were in the same block. All the fires appeared to have been started in the same way by dropping a burning ball of oiled waste down a dumb waiter shaft. The police are convinced that they were the work of another gang of firebugs which has been terrorizing the tenement house district for the last two weeks.

PRISCILLA, DISABLED, RUNS INTO SAND BARGE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The Fall River liner Priscilla, while rushing in mid-stream, rammed a sand barge as she was proceeding down the East River to-day, the accident causing the greatest excitement among the two hundred passengers, who were just leaving their staterooms to go to breakfast. The big Sound steamer had slipped her cables when off Thirty-fourth street, as she was on her way to her berth at Pier No. 19, North River. The vessel slowed up, but before she could be stopped she ran into the sand barge.

The collision was not a hard one and the captain and crew of the Priscilla soon succeeded in reassuring the passengers. A boat was lowered and took word ashore that the Priscilla would have to be towed to her dock.

This was sent to the manager of the Daniel Towing Company, by telephone, and within a short time three tugs were on their way to help the Priscilla out of her predicament. They towed the steamer around to the North river.

TWO VINCENT CLUB GIRLS ARE HAPPY BRIDES TODAY

Miss Rosamond Little Is Married to Karl de Laittre and Miss Katrine Coolidge to James H. Perkins.

Society's chief interest to-day is in the weddings this afternoon of two prominent Vincent Club members, Miss Rosamond Little and Miss Katrine Coolidge.

Miss Little, who is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Little of Salem, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. David P. Kimball of Commonwealth avenue, was one of last Winter's most prominent beaus.

Miss Little and her sister were introduced to society at a reception and tea given for them by their mother at their residence in Salem, and later at one of the most brilliant balls of the Winter given for them by their grandmother, Mrs. Kimball, at the Somerset. From that time on the two pretty sisters reigned supreme in the debutante world until their departure for Europe with their grandparents late in the Winter, and it was on the occasion of calling that Miss Little's engagement to Karl de Laittre of Milwaukee was announced.

The ceremony takes place at 4 o'clock in the North Church at Salem and is performed by the Rev. George D. Latimer. The dainty bride in her imported gown of white satin, trimmed elaborately with old lace, is attended by her sister, Mrs. Tappan Reeve, as matron of honor, and six of her intimate friends as bridesmaids. Miss Barbee Bellenger of Minneapolis, the groom's best man, and the six ushers, Messrs. Frederick Harris, classmates of the groom, Mr. de Laittre's son of Milwaukee, and Mrs. John de Laittre of Minneapolis, a Harvard '97 man and prominently identified with several clubs.

Miss Coolidge's wedding to James H. Perkins of Milton will be a more quiet affair, and is solemnized at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, John Templeton Coolidge, jr., on Beacon street. The Rev. Mr. Hill officiates, and only immediate relatives and a few intimate friends are invited. The bride, who is a sweet-faced blonde, wears a white satin princess gown trimmed with Japanese lace and a lace veil. She is unattended and is given in marriage by her distinguished father.

FOG DELAYS ALL SHIPPING

The Ransom B. Fuller, one of the Eastern Steamship Company's boats on the Boston-Kennebec River run, came back to her dock to-day, to the surprise of those who had seen her pull out last night. "Twas the fog," the captain said.

The Fuller got as far as Marblehead last night. All the way the fog had been thick and disagreeable. It appeared to be growing worse, and at Marblehead the steamer was put about. She anchored all night in Marblehead Harbor.

Captain McKinnon of the Dominion Atlantic liner Prince Rupert, from Yarmouth, N. S., declared that never had he seen such fog as he met on his way from Yarmouth to Boston." Captain McKinnon said: "I could hardly see my hand before me."

AUTO UPSETS CAB; WOMAN'S HEAD CUT

Miss Mary E. Church of No. 401 Beacon street, head of the school for girls of that name, is to-day suffering from a cut on her head received in an auto and cab smashup yesterday. An automobile owned by Robert Evans of No. 17 Gloucester street, and operated by Patrick Mahoney of No. 853 Newbury street, ran into the cab carrying Miss Church at the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Clarendon street. The shock of the collision turned the cab over and threw Miss Church from her seat with sufficient violence to inflict a cut on her head.

LOVE OF DISPLAY DRIVES WOMEN TO SHOPLIFTING, SAYS ELEANOR AMES

Judge Brown's Just Severity in Imposing $500 Fines Meets Commendation.

Vanity, Not Need, the Impelling Motive Which Generally Leads to This Crime.

FATE AWAITING WOMEN WHO ALLOW VANITY TO OVERCOME HONESTY

By Eleanor Ames.

JUDGE BROWN'S attitude toward wilfully dishonest people, irrespective of sex, is to be commended.

Two well dressed prosperous appearing women convicted of shoplifting had a fine of $500 apiece meted out to them when they faced his honor the Judge.

Tears from the unhappy prisoners and pleas for clemency from their counsel were alike unavailing Said Judge Brown:

"I want it understood in this county that this sort of work can't be done with out the guilty parties being made to suffer a just penalty for it. The public must be protected and this practice must be stopped."

Therefore the husband of Mary Thompson of Worcester street had to pay $500 to keep his wife from going to jail.

Will Scrub Prison Floors.

Mr. Graham, not having an equal amount of money had to see his wife Margaret, bed weeping away to Charles Street jail, where for three months she will scrub prison floors.

Goods to the value of over $500, which had been taken from various department stores, were found in the homes of the two women.

Few of the stolen goods were articles of actual necessity, and neither woman can gave any sign of poverty as she appeared in court.

Indeed they suggested need as little as critics.

They were well-groomed, well-dressed, stylish women of good countenance and presence.

Why they should have deliberately chosen to wreck their own lives and bring dishonor on the men who gave them protection is hard to understand.

Had they been destitute, hungry, cold, with ears that echoed with the wail of needy dependents, the situation would have been different. My heart has always been full of sympathy and forgiveness for the woman, who driven to desperation by want, steals food for herself or dear ones

Dishonesty Never Pays.

For the deliberately, voluntarily dishonest person, I can only emphasize and applaud Judge Brown's decision.

Dishonesty IS the best policy. Dishonesty never has paid and never will pay.

The thief may prosper for a time, but the day of reckoning is sure to come.

And I do not believe that the prosperity at any time is more than seeming.

The human heart never becomes entirely callous. Conscience can not really die, even in the most depraved.

Then why should you want to go with gay fashions and comfortable dress turn thieves?

Love of display, that's the word. The longing to appear well dressed, to be admired, to own the various foolish fancies of the moment, that I believe is the real reason that women who have been decent, respectable and honest, suddenly forget so far as to brand themselves criminals.

It is seldom some necessary article like bacon overlooking which bulks its way to the shoplifter's pocket.

Like Jewelry and Laces.

It is more often some costly trifle like lace or jewelry. Silks are stolen more often than staghorn.

It is the determination to have what other people have, regardless of expense which causes the downfall of nine-tenths of the women who meet disgrace.

The holiday season invariably increases the number of shoplifters in proportion to the number of shoppers.

In the gay throngs in the shops, the spirit of money-spending in the air compel people mostly to forget prudence and grow reckless in their prodigality.

It takes a strong level head to keep within one's means, in the dazzling glory of the Christmas decorations, but it should not breed dishonesty as well as extravagance.

The spendthrift, with all her faults, is a paragon of virtue compared to the thief. Honesty and prudence carry their own good works to guard one's conduct to all times, and especially when, above the din and glitter of the shopping district is shrieking.

CHAPPLE KNOWS HOW TO WORK FOR GAS TRUST

As President of Senate He Can Pick Committees to Please All Corporations.

That the Sidon tiss Company thinks that it owns the streets of any town or city through which it runs its mains and that Senator William B. Chapple, who has been selected by the Trusts for the presidency of the Senate, proposes to help establish that contention if he can, was brought to light by a suit that his just been brought by the gas company against George M. Byrne, a contractor of this city.

Mr. Byrne is putting in a sewer in Pos leigh. Before including excavation he got the proper permit from the Sewer Commissioner. This allowed him to remove the gas mains and any other obstruction that came in his way.

The gas mains were moved and the gas company, holding that it had more right to the street than the officials of the city, brought a suit for $1,000 damages. Senator Chapple is counsel for the gas company.

Should Senator Chapple become president of the Senate he will have the appointing of the gas committee, which will have power to regulate the company and have to be consulted on gas interests of Salem, at least, will back Mr. Chapple for the presidency of the body of which he was a member.

There was talk of making Senator Bostrick president of the Senate, but the BOSTON AMERICAN published a picture of John at a banquet of the Ice Trust and he dropped out. Senator Taft was talked of for the position, also, but his record on the Overtime Bill was such as made his bankers hesitate. Now Chapple looms up as the winner. The one and other corporations want him.

THURSTON NOW ANNOUNCED AS THE NOMINEE

Errors Again Change Cambridge Situation; Aylward Asks for a Recount.

As a result of errors discovered in the Cambridge Democratic primary vote, Mayor Charles H. Thurston is declared to have received the Democratic nomination for Mayor over James F. Aylward.

City Clerk Brandon, in going over the ward returns and comparing them with the tally sheets, found that there had been errors of copying two blocks of fifty votes each, with the result that they are cred ited to Thurston and taken away from Aylward's total.

Mr. Aylward has petitioned for a recount in view of the fact that the officials have found so many errors and twice upset election returns. Until the result of the recount is known, Mr. Aylward believes that he has about as much chance for nomination as has Thurston.

On Tuesday night, after the primaries, Mayor Thurston was informed that he had won. Congratulations were in order, Mr. Aylward and his chief supporter, former Mayor John H. H. McNamee, were downcast. The congratulations were cut short when the next bulletin told that a hundred votes that had been counted for Thurston should have been counted for Aylward. That gave Aylward the nomination and a lot of ghosts was quickly dispelled. Now that he had been defeated Mayor Thurston extended his best wishes to the successful candidate.

Twenty four hours after the second count Mayor Thurston's congratulations were withdrawn. "I am very sorry," Mr. Thurston is quoted as having said Mr. Brandon, and he showed the figures.

According to the latest figures Mayor Thurston's plurality is 160.

It was the hottest fight Cambridge has had in years. Mr. Aylward had the backing of the Municipal Ownership League, of which he is an active member. In the wards where the league has strong organizations the vote for Aylward was heavy.

Mr. Aylward will abide by the result of the recount. To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter he said to-day:

"I shall not be an independent candidate

TRUST LAWYER AGAIN ATTACKS CITY OWNERSHIP

Electric Light Company Tries to Spread Misinformation on Foreign Experiments.

As the people are gradually awakening to the unbelievable folly of giving public utilities themselves bastered of letting the crude magazines fleece them out of their hard-earned money, the Edison Electric Company of Boston is putting forth its nitiest efforts to forestall the people in taking to themselves their own.

On active duty in behalf of the Electric Light Trust is Everett W. Burdett. He went to Europe and got up a story to the effect that municipal ownership has been a failure there. This story he has had printed in pamphlet form, and it is being mailed by thousands broadcast throughout the State.

Mr. Burdett, who is the paid attorney of the electric light company, sent a copy of the 1904 Colonial Street railway lockout pamphlet to every voter in the city, whenever an opportunity offers. Before the Massachusetts Electrical Engineers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, last evening, he told it.

"It has been found and all of the local papers, published a picture of John at a banquet of the Ice Trust and he dropped out. Senator Taft was talked of for the position, also, but his record on the Overtime Bill was such as made his bankers hesitate. Now Chapple looms up as the winner. The one and other corporations want him.

"It has been found and all of the local journals on the other side will tell you," said Lawyer Burdett, "that municipal ownership has been a complete failure."

Those who have read Lincoln Steffens's Charles F. Russell in Everybody's Magazine about the success of municipal ownership abroad—and Mr. Russell was sent there to get the truth and not obtain misinformation upon which to base an adverse report—will doubtless hesitate before accepting the word of the gas company's lawyer on this matter.

An enthusiasm that grows steadily like the rising tide; an enthusiasm that gathers strength and volume for more than five years, must have a strong and abiding incentive. This is the enthusiasm maintained by our Friday sales. We have held over 500 of these sales and we venture the prediction that the two sales tomorrow will surpass in popular interest any that we have previously held. What do you think of these prices?

HEARD GIRL'S PIERCING SCREAM, SAYS WOMAN IN GILLETTE TRIAL

LOVE TO THE GIRLS.
"Dear Mother: I'm having a lovely time; don't worry. I'll write to-night. Our trip was most unexpected. I am glad that I am here. Love to the girls and keep them in school. With love.
BILLY"

GRACE BROWN'S LAST LETTER TO HER MOTHER.

On the eve of her tragic death, though she was herself deeply depressed and haunted by vague apprehensions of impending disaster, the girl wrote cheerfully to her loyal mother, whose anxiety she wished to allay. A few hours later her body was floating among the water lilies of Big Moose Lake and her sweetheart, Chester Gillette was a fugitive, charged with her murder.

over a rocky road from the Glenmere Hotel to Big Moose station in a wagon with out springs. The defence will claim that the girl's skull was fractured during the jolting ride.

The State will endeavor to meet this contention by the testimony of five physicians who performed the autopsy. They will testify that the girl's skull was fractured, and there was blood congestion at the base of the fracture. There will be medical testimony to show that when the skull of a corpse is fractured no blood clot forms.

Face Drawn in Terror.

John Kerwin, a steamboat man who brought the body of Grace Brown to the surface of the water, said to-day:

"I have recovered many drowned bodies, but never have I seen the face of a drowned person so drawn in terror and horror as the face of Grace Brown. Drowned persons have pleasant faces. Terror was written in deep lines on the face of that dead girl so plain, so strong, that I never can forget it."

Chester Gillette was seen on his way through the forest a few minutes after the shrill cry of the stricken girl rang out across the waters of the lake.

The cry was heard by Mrs. P. C. Carey of East Orange and the flight was described by James S. Park of New York, a young man of eighteen, who at the hour was passing through the woods in an opposite direction.

Both Mrs. Carey and Park made a profound impression upon court and jury by the intelligence with which they answered all their questions. The description of every detail of the events of the evening of that fatal day in July.

Mrs. Carey's testimony while startling and dramatic, failed to establish what everyone had expected after the reference to it made in the opening of the case by the district attorney.

"Voice of One in Peril."

She stated that on July 11 she was in the Big Moose at a place known as Moore's range. With her were her husband, her mother, brother and two cousins. She was well acquainted with the entire region, as she had spent other Summers in the same vicinity.

"Just what happened about 6 o'clock on the evening of July 11 at your cottage, Mrs. Carey?" asked the district attorney.

"At that hour, perhaps it was five minutes before, perhaps five minutes after, I cannot say," replied the witness. "I was up on the waters of Big Moose in a boat with my husband, on our way across the lake to Carey's Camp, where we were going to get our mail. We were not far from the shore when a cry rang out over the water coming from the direction of South Bay. It was penetrating and sharp, and sounded as if it came from the west shore of the South Bay."

"What was the voice, that of a man or a woman?" the District Attorney asked.

"It was one cry in two syllables, and too high pitched to be any other than the cry of a woman. It was a young woman, I should say, and one who was in peril, I think."

Now that the voice, that of a man or a woman?" the District Attorney asked.

"It was one cry in two syllables, and too high pitched to be any other than the cry of a woman. It was a young woman, I should say, and one who was in peril, I think."

LABOR STANDS A UNIT OPPOSING BIENNIAL VOTE

Calls Friendliness for the Idea Enough in Itself to Put Wage Earners on Guard.

PASS FIRM RESOLUTIONS

Five more labor organizations have taken action denouncing the agitation of the corporate interests for biennial elections. They are:

Boston Central Wage Earners' Club.

Electrical Workers' Union No. 103.

Harness Makers' Union No. 105.

Clothing Pressmen's Union No. 158.

Pattern Makers' Association.

Wage Earners' Central Club.

The Wage Earners' Central Club, composed of delegates from branches in each of the twenty-five wards of the city, at a largely attended meeting in Wells Memorial Building, unanimously passed the following resolution, which was offered by Secretary Leeman:

"Resolved, that we, the delegates to the Boston Central Wage Earners' Club, unanimously indorse the action of the Central Labor Union in denouncing the efforts now being made by the trusts to have biennial elections in this State."

Electrical Workers. No. 103.

Alleging that "the friendliness that has developed for the biennial idea is enough of itself to put wage earners on their guard," the members of Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 unanimously adopted the following resolutions at a meeting in Dexter Hall:

"Whereas, immediately upon the conclusion of the recent State election, one of the morning newspapers of Boston has begun an agitation in favor of biennial elections, instead of yearly elections; and

"Whereas, nothing had been said in the course of the campaign to prepare either candidates or voters for the suggestion of biennial elections at this time; and

"Whereas, the people of Massachusetts had supposed that they had definitely decided in favor of annual elections often enough and decisively enough; and

"Whereas, the friendliness that has developed for the biennial idea is enough of itself to put wage earners on their guard; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we, the members of Electrical Workers' Union No. 103, go on record as unanimously in favor of holding to the present order of things, which once every year gives the people an opportunity to express approval or disapproval of the acts of public servants."

Harness Makers. No. 105.

Harness Makers' Union No. 105 passed the following resolutions without a dissenting vote, at a well attended meeting at No. 724 Washington street:

"Whereas, we, the members of Harness Workers' Union No. 105, believe that if elections were held every two years the corporations would have such a hold upon the legislature that it would be almost impossible to bring about any reform; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that we register our decided opposition against the agitation of the corporations for biennial elections."

Clothing Pressmen's Union.

Clothing Pressmen's Union unanimously voted to condemn biennial elections as detrimental to the interests of the working people at a meeting at No. 18 Kneeland street.

Pattern Makers' Association.

Pattern Makers' Association voted to indorse the action of the Central Labor Union in condemning biennial elections at last night's meeting in Naomi hall, No. 734 Washington street.

MRS. DUFF DEFIES BOSSES IN SCHOOL BOARD FIGHT

No Woman Now on Committee, She Seeks to Represent 60,000 Mothers of Boston.

Mrs. Julia E. Duff of Charlestown, who believes that a woman should be a member of the Boston School Committee, comes before the Democratic city convention to-morrow night as a candidate for the place of David A. Ellis, whose term expires this year. As a former member of the School Committee Mrs. Duff became widely known because of her pronounced views on school administration. The following statement given by her to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day explains her platform:

By Mrs. Julia E. Duff.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald has stated that a Jew ought to be elected to the School Board. It matters not to the city of Boston what the race or class of the chosen member—it is the individual that is needed.

I am a candidate. I shall run independently if I do not secure the Democratic nomination, and win, if possible, in spite of the attitude of the Mayor and his friends, and I shall run not as a representative of any race or creed, but as a representative of 60,000 mothers of children in the city of Boston.

There is no woman on the board at present to represent those mothers.

Five days ago Mayor Fitzgerald stated that there were 25,000 Jewish children in the schools. Now he says there are 30,000. I do not believe the Immigration bureau will show an increase of 5,000 Jewish school children in five days, but that is not an issue.

Would Ignore Dictators.

Mayor Fitzgerald and his friend, Chairman Storrow, do not want me on the board because I would vote independently of their wishes and for the mothers and children. Time and again I have combated the politics of the existing authorities, and they know I would do it again. So they are scared blue at the thought of my possible election.

I fought in the legislature for the $500,000 school appropriation which the Mayor regularly diverts to other purposes. If money is to be diverted let it come from the street departments and the sheriff and portments in general that the children of Boston be not deprived of facilities for their education. School building must go on. Graft ought to cease.

Knows School Situation.

And as a woman and a mother I can represent Jewish children as well as a man chosen by the Mayor and the school board chairman, and I can represent the children of all races. I was on the board five years, and I gave the best of myself, physically and mentally, to the work. And laid aside for it many years of life to give all up but some few of the child's play which in the small hours of the morning nor attend club meetings in the evening, but gave my time and energies to the children, answered all questions and gave all advice requested.

Having been fourteen years a teacher I know the grades and I know every detail as others know their A, B, C's.

Says System Pernicious.

The essence and beauty of school teaching rests in the enthusiasm and satisfaction experienced by the teacher in his or her work. This cannot be with veiled threats hanging over them. The new ruling of the board—the threat to send teachers up for examination—is a crushing deterrent to best work and I know it well. The fear of pension should never enter into the thoughts of the teacher. The system is pernicious in influence upon the teacher and the children. A teacher should be free from all matters outside of the schoolroom.

Candidate Ellis is disciplining before the teachers the bolt that he will try for teachers' pensions. They know that I have always favored everything in their interest. They also know that the annual theft they are likely to get to pensions in the near future is embodied in their teachers' retirement fund. The basis of the pension scheme is that perhaps a man will be forthcoming, but they know it will not be forthcoming from the city of Boston while they are not by reason of sex allowed to vote for Mayor, Aldermen or Councilmen.

Guards Teachers' Rights.

The teachers know that I am just as active in their interests as Mr. Ellis can be, and that I have guarded them and their salaries upon all occasions.

They fear me in the board, for they know I can be relied upon to make a speech against them whenever it is called for, and they cannot muzzle me. The Mayor will need great ability next year. The assistance of Mr. Storrow will be very welcome. He is helping Mr. Storrow now.

I'll be faithful to those who place me in office. Indefinitely I call attention to my labor record, for which I was openly thanked by the Boston Central Labor Union.

MRS. JULIA E. DUFF.

AMUSEMENT PARLOR MAN IS FINED $200

WORCESTER, Nov. 22.—Nathan H. Jordan, thirty-four years old, proprietor of two penny amusement parlors on Main and Front streets, was fined $200 by Judge Utley in the Central District Court to-day, the result of a crusade being waged by clergymen against amusement parlors.

DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK DARK FOR ALDERMEN

Flock of Independent Candidates Improves Prospects of Republicans.

ONE CANDIDACY A TRICK?

The prospect of a large Democratic representation in next year's Board of Aldermen is not particularly bright at present, with thirteen regular Democrats and nearly a score of Independents in the field to divide the vote. Unless Mayor Fitzgerald is successful in getting some of the Independent candidates to withdraw there is a possibility that the Republicans will obtain a majority of the next board.

At present there are thirteen regular Democratic candidates, thirteen regular Republicans, twelve Socialistic and seventeen Independents in the field.

Among the Independent nomination papers now in circulation are lists for Daniel Whelton. Who the Daniel Whelton is, no one knows, but his candidacy, it is believed, is being backed by the City Hall administration to hurt the chances of Daniel A. Whelton of Ward 8 in retaliation for the latter's holding up in the Board of Aldermen the Mayor's nomination of Francis J. Heegan of Ward 8 to be a principal assessor.

ST. VITUS DANCE

Cured by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

A victim of St. Vitus dance is a pitiful object. St. Vitus dance is to the body what insanity is to the mind.

The muscles twitch and jerk, they are beyond control, speech is difficult, often impossible. Often the patient cannot walk or feed himself.

There is nothing more certain in medical science than that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will cure St. Vitus dance—even where all other remedies have failed.

Mr. H. F. Morgan, 13 Webster Ave., N. Y., says:

"My daughter, Jessie B., had St. Vitus dance in a severe form. She was under the care of a physician in Richmond, Va., and she had to stop going to school. She was very nervous, could not sleep, and grew steadily worse. The doctor ordered me to take her out of school. We had a private teacher for half of our time, but she got so bad that she lost her sight, and could not speak correctly. Seeing Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy advertised, I thought I would try it, and was able to buy it, and could see as well as ever. She took six bottles and she has never had a symptom of St. Vitus dance since.

Dr. Greene may be consulted free of charge personally or by mail at his office, 34 Temple Pl., Boston. The professional skill, ability and experience of this great specialist are at your service.

FRANCIS MAKES DARING BREAKS IN WILD FLIGHT

BELFAST, Me., Nov. 22.—Minot St. Clair Francis, desperado and jail breaker, left the north during the night in both breaks at Sandy Point, bound for Searsport. A barn was broken into for an horse, the only purpose thus feeling a horse Francis stole a horse from Alton Herd of Swanswood.

To-day's discoveries have renewed public interest in the case here, and although the non-professionals have been more wary than ever of being shot and hurt, Deputy Warden Norton and his deputies are more than ever determined that the negro must be brought back to Thomaston, dead or alive.

Last night's prowler who broke into the store of W. A. Griffin and helped himself to provisions, in the Griffin store is also the Sandy Point postoffice, and the fact that the property was undisturbed by the burglar would seem to have been directly for the sake of a cottage at Sandy Point, where his band hoped to hide.

Francis' hour appears to be working up the Penobscot River 14, the general theory of Bangor, although it can not fairly be possible that he intends to make that city.

The tracks of the negro were plainly to the woods in Liberty were reached, where they disappeared. The sixteen is beamed in on both sides by about seven miles of dense forest, and it is believed that the negro is hiding in these woods.

Fifty armed vigilants were at once thrown about the place and every road is being patrolled. This guard was almost doubled early this morning, when a systematic plan of closing in was begun. Every effort is being made to locate him, and it is hoped the hungry horse will bring his presence.

The horse stolen by Francis was driven all day yesterday over many miles of ground, and it is not believed that the animal can stand any more driving. As Francis is known to be hampered by the condition of his feet, which are shoeless and bound up in cloth, he can no longer make rapid flight on foot.

Along the trail from Searsmont, where the horse was stolen, have been found two knives, one is the kind used in a harness shop, and Warden Norton declares it to be one of Francis'. The other is a butcher knife.

Francis is now about twenty-eight miles from Augusta. From his movements the officers have come to the conclusion that he has been compelled to double on his tracks several times.

PROSECUTOR TO PROBE POISON AT WEDDING

DISTRICT ATTORNEY CALLED TO INVESTIGATE MYSTERIOUS SPRINGFIELD TRAGEDY.

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 22.—Determined to solve the mystery of the fatal poisoning of one guest and the violent illness of sixty guests at the banquet following the wedding of Miss Anna Slavin and Samuel B. Broudin at Highland Hall here Tuesday night, the police of Springfield to-day asked District Attorney John F. Noton of Pittsfield to take the case in hand.

Charles Slavin, a brother of the bride, says that he believes that some enemy of his sister or brother-in-law placed poison on the meats that stood on the table in the banquet hall while the marriage ceremony was being performed. Since the wedding the bride and bridegroom and the Slavin family have eaten freely of the cured beef and pickled tongue and liver without ill effect. But the meat they ate had not been placed on the banquet board.

District Attorney Noton to-day directed Medical Examiner Bates to make an autopsy on the body of Max Odentz, the uncle of the bride, who died eight hours after the banquet.

Will Examine Stomach.

If it is thought necessary a chemical examination will be made of the contents of the stomach. Portions of the meats, bread and cake served at the banquet have been entered in the hands of Dr. H. C. Eddy, the chemist, for examination.

Samuel B. Broudin and his bride did not leave Springfield on their honeymoon owing to the illness of Mr. Odentz and the illness of so many relatives and friends. Those who were taken ill are doing very well and if no unexpected circumstances arise should all recover. The bride and bridegroom escaped illness, as they did not eat anything but a little of the wedding cake.

Abraham Slavin, father of the bride, and Charles Goldstein, a merchant, divided a lobster that had been served on the banquet table after the feast. The part that the merchant ate sickened him, while Mr. Slavin's was not affected. Mr. Slavin is positive that his meats were all right and that they were treated to some kind of poison in the hall.

Taken Violently Ill.

Mr. Odentz was taken violently ill while the first dance following the wedding banquet was in progress. He died yesterday morning, eight hours after he was stricken. About fifty other guests who had attended the wedding and partaken of the banquet were made very sick, and some of them are not yet entirely out of danger.

The wedding was one of the largest Jewish functions of the kind ever held in the city. The banquet was served by Mr. Slavin, a meat dealer, and immediately followed the ceremony.

Poisoners Had Opportunity.

Mr. Slavin says the meat he furnished was fresh. He says poison could easily have been placed on it by some one who had a grudge against him, as it was displayed on the tables throughout the evening and was unguarded.

Miss Martha McClench and Miss Eleanor Townsley were bridesmaids at the wedding. They are sisters-in-law, and the bride was one of their pupils. They did not eat any of the meat and are not ill.

BIG OVATION FOR ROOSEVELT

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 22.—President Roosevelt was accorded an ovation surpassing anything ever seen in Porto Rico at the reception to-day in his honor at the gubernatorial mansion. Many persons were unable to reach the President to shake his hand.

As incident was the meeting of President Roosevelt and Captain Capron, fought by his side at Santiago de Cuba, and was followed by the Episcopal chaplain of the regiment. Roosevelt's return to the United States will be delayed somewhat. The roughness of the sea suicide for Jamaica has induced him to board the Louisiana there, and he will return to Ponce to embark.

ASKS AID FOR FRISCO CHURCH

To assist congregations of their faith to rebuild or to restore the shattered temples of San Francisco, the Protestant Episcopal church in Massachusetts will on next Sunday raise money for that purpose. A call has just been issued by Bishop Lawrence, and he calls upon every parish in the diocese of Massachusetts to give all the money it can afford.

In a diocesan letter issued to-day the bishop says:

"The total net loss, beyond insurance, to the Episcopal church in San Francisco is over $500,000. With more stringent building laws and other changes much more than that sum will be needed to place the church in a position where she can do good work in the coming years.

Notice to Labor Unions.

A determined effort to bring about biennia lelections has been started by the corporations which are in control of the State government.

If we had biennial elections those traitors in our ranks who helped to kill the Overtime Bill would still be members of the Legislature.

You have now defeated Hilton, Grosvenor and the others, and next January we shall have a NEW Legislature which WILL PASS THE OVERTIME BILL.

If we held elections only once in two years, we would not have a new Legislature until 1908, and by that time, perhaps, the Overtime treachery would be forgotten.

If the people are to preserve their privilege of passing judgment on their Representatives EVERY YEAR, they must take immediate action.

It is desirable that trades unions should place themselves on record before January 1, when the next Legislature meets. All unions which take action on the matter are requested to send copies of their resolutions for publication in this column.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Costs Nothing To Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. They are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or peaks form in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

CALL ON LEGISLATURE TO PROBE BIG TROLLEY GRAB

Absorption of $8,000,000 Lines Through Law-Defying Holding Company.

The greatest grab of trolley lines ever attempted in this country will, it is declared, be investigated by the Massachusetts Legislature next January, when the deal by which the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company seeks to consolidate all street railway systems in its territory in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and to establish a through line from Boston to New York, will be probed.

The statement made by officers of the New Haven Railroad yesterday that it had secured four electric railways, valued at $8,000,000, connecting Massachusetts towns with Providence and other Rhode Island cities, is significant of the extent of the enormous trolley grab now being engineered.

A Gigantic "Gobble."

By means of the New England Investment and Securities Company, merely a holding concern, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad expects to be and western Massachusetts, with the exception of the Berkshire companies, which able to complete its gigantic trolley gobble in defiance of the intent of the laws of Massachusetts.

The latest deal makes the New Haven road master of the trolley system in Rhode Island, controlling also several railways in that State with the exception of the Rhode Island Company, and it is rumored that the New Haven is after that road.

The lines just taken over by the New Haven comprise the "Ray System" of street railways which connect such towns as Milford, Medway and Franklin with Woonsocket and Providence.

Against Bay State Law.

The Rhode Island system now has control of all the surface roads in Connecticut except the Consolidated Railway Company of New Haven.

What the Trolley Grabbers Now Have

Control of freight traffic in Western and Southwestern Massachusetts.

What They Want.

A through trolley line from Boston to New York.

Complete dictation of freight rates in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut through control of all trolley systems.

Seizure of Electric Railroads by New Haven to Be Subject of Inquiry.

are under the wing of the Boston & Albany. Having secured a line of street railways from Springfield to Worcester, and now the control of the south and southeastern systems, the New Haven is in a position to control not only the passenger traffic of the State, but also the freight facilities.

The reason for gobbling up all the street railway systems is to prevent a reduction in trolley rates, as many of the street railways were getting ready to seek legislation which would allow them to carry merchandise which only steam roads are now handling.

See Strength in Public Demand.

For years the New Haven has largely controlled the supply of coal and other necessaries for southeastern Massachusetts, and the business men have made repeated efforts to obtain legislation allowing other railways to carry freight. This has been fought by the New Haven, and the farmers, the steam roads said, seeing that opposition could no longer be maintained because of the demand on lower rates, the steam roads are acquiring control of the street railways, thus giving them the monopoly of all the freight-carrying facilities.

The acquisition by these steam railroads of the street railways has been going on so quietly and practically unnoticed that it will be practically finished before the public will be aroused sufficiently to protest. The only chance left for the people in this new phase is likely to result which will prevent the New Haven and other roads from acquiring competing lines throughout Massachusetts.

GRAB CHARGE AGAINST "L" AND B. & M.

Property Owners, Officials and Lawyers Prepare for Battle Over New Route.

EXPECT BITTER CONTEST

During the hearing to-day before the railroad commissioners on the appeal of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company from the recent decision of the Board of Aldermen refusing to grant the desired route through the West End, Martin M. Lomasney, who represented the people of Ward 8, charged that the Boston & Maine Railroad and the Boston Elevated had acted in collusion for their own interests against the people.

This direct charge with counsel William A. Bancroft, president of the Boston Elevated, present and giving the corporation side of the "grab" came as a distinct sensation.

Mr. Lomasney charged that the two corporations had acted together at the expense of the real estate owners of the West End; that the Boston & Maine had agreed to the proposed elevated route in the hope of the North station in return for the Boston Elevated agreeing to keep away from the freight sheds in Nashua street.

Hearing Continued to Dec. 3.

General Bancroft was before the railroad commissioners for two and a half hours to-day. When he had finished the hearing was continued until Monday, Dec. 3.

General Bancroft said that the Boston Elevated had chosen the proposed route in spite of its existing franchises more than any other through the West End, because it would best serve the interests of the public. He said:

"We did not bow to the sentiment of the West End people to build a subway because the Legislature requires us to build an elevated road. The elevated road is essential to give the desired service in transportation through the West End. I insist that we have had conferences with the Boston & Maine representatives regarding the route, and they agreed with us that the route asked for is the best.

Bancroft Cross-examined.

Martin M. Lomasney and Daniel J. Kiley cross-examined General Bancroft sharply and freely. Mr. Kiley represented the Common Council.

Alderman Frank J. Linehan, Charles Pepper and Dennis Keefe were present as committees to represent the Board of Aldermen. The Elevated road again submitted its plan, objecting for their poisoned West End tunnelling route, starting from the North Station and running over the principal West End streets.

That the clash between the Boston Elevated and the West End property owners will be a bitter one was evident from the gauntlet of attorneys present to contest every point.

Long before the scheduled opening of the meeting the hearing room was jammed with representatives. Even the staircases and corridors were crowded with citizens eager to voice their protest against the West End grab.

"ENGLISH PONIES," SINGERS AND DANCERS, MAKE HIT AT BOSTON

"ENGLISH PONIES," DANCERS AT BOSTON THEATRE.

Create Furore in "His Honor the Mayor" by Their Artistic Ability.

Rarely does an English organization come to this country, do an act that has been attempted by dozens of similar organizations and create a furore, because of wonderful ability, remarkable artistic costuming and general comeliness. But Alfred E. Aarons's "English Ponies," who are part of the new musical comedy, "His Honor the Mayor," now at the Boston Theatre, have done just this, and for the reasons named.

Not that they do things that others do not do, but that they do them better is the secret of their success—the reason for the dozens of encores which they receive after each act.

There are eight young "ponies" in this aggregation, and they are the finest famous dancers in the world. They are all English girls, of diminutive stature, and all are graduates of Tiller's School of Dancing in London.

These girls do four distinct dances, with a change of costume for each. The costumes in the Pompere dance and the Tambourine dance are remarkable for their artistic harmony and the general color scheme. But not the least interesting feature about their act is the fact that they can sing as well as they can dance.

This combination of dancing, singing and costuming is hard to beat. For these reasons they have come to form one of the chief features of "His Honor the Mayor."

COMING ATTRACTIONS AT BOSTON THEATRES

At the Castle Square next Tuesday evening Richard Waldron will receive the honors of the second "Actors' Night." The house will be filled with his friends, and he will have the role of Maurice Stephenson in "The Prodigal Son." Each person present will receive as a souvenir a portrait of Mr. Waldron with an autobiographical sketch.

The concert at Keith's next Sunday evening will be for the benefit of the Carney Hospital.

Elsie Janis's starring vehicle, "The Vanderbilt Cup," which will be at the Colonial Theatre December 3, was intended as a response from the stage to the automobiling craze. The finish of the race for the Vanderbilt cup is shown with two racing cars going at a tremendous clip on a moveable apparatus, which keeps them in the centre of the stage while moving. A remarkable degree of realism is attained.

Lawrance D'Orsay, who appears next week at the Park Theatre in "The Orchard Ball," the newest play by Augustus Thomas, is the first star to be sent out by Daniel Frohman from the new Lyceum Theatre, New York, to the days of the old Lyceum Theatre the stock company which Mr. Frohman maintained at that house became a famous institution. In it were Hearlett Thomas, Georgie Cayvan, Effie Shannon, Henry Miller and Herbert Kelcey. In addition, Mr. Frohman numbered E. H. Sothern in the position of the leading light comedian of the American stage. It is Mr. Frohman's intention to have Mr. D'Orsay occupy in the Lyceum Theatre under his direction a position analogous to that formerly held by Mr. Sothern, and he will be equipped with the same style of plays. The first one is "The Embassador."

Friday night will be the occasion for a "Sailors' Party" at the Park Square Rink. The management has taken advantage of the Grand Circuit meeting in naming this special event, and appropriate souvenirs will be presented to all who attend.

Seats will go on sale next Monday for "Little Johnny Jones," which comes to the Boston Theatre for a fortnight's engagement, beginning December 3. It will be presented by the original New York cast, with the exception of George Cohan, whose part will be played by Bobby Barry.

Prince and Princess de Bragia, whose domestic affairs are attracting such attention in New York, are both to appear at the Orpheum next week, the Prince taking the place of the orchestral conductor in the accommodations to the songs sung by the Princess.

George Evans (Honey Boy), Mary Dupont and company, and Joe and Hawaiian troupe of Arabs will be among the many features at the Globe concert next Sunday night.

If all the preceding events of "A Marked Woman," at the Grand Opera House are patronized the Grand Opera House are promised the most spectacular new-national play in years for Thanksgiving week.

157 SKIPPERS OUT OF 164 BAND AGAINST TRUST

Master Fishermen Plan Fight on Monopoly Forming to Control Prices.

MEANS LOSS OF PROFITS

The master fishermen met at No. 10 Long Wharf last night to plan assistance to the movement among the fish buyers to form a trust controlling the price of fish at the dock. This, they say, would put the fishermen of the ports of their industry, especially on the "ground fish," such as cod, hake, haddock and cusk, which sell through the year for from a cent and three-quarters to seven cents a pound. Rumor has it that the trust expects to fix a uniform price of $2 a hundred for "ground fish."

Upon the association roster yesterday were the names of 157 skippers out of a fleet of 164 vessels sailing out of Boston, Gloucester and Provincetown.

By unanimous vote the names of the association's officers and newly elected members were withheld, as well as the progress of the meeting. It being first desired to learn the purpose and strength of the proposed fish trust. About thirty were present.

BONI LOPPED OFF SOUS FROM WASHING BILLS

ASK $600,000 FROM ESTATE

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The hearing of the creditors' action for the recovery of 3,000,000 francs ($600,000) from the joint estate of Count and Countess Boni de Castellane was resumed today. It disclosed some piquant details of the housekeeping methods and financial results of the couple when they were hard up.

Maitre Jacobson, for Adolph Zeigler, the principal creditor, added to the Count's reputation as a devoted husband by declaring him a good housekeeper, one "not above such sordid details as the checking of washerwomans' bills."

The audience laughed heartily when it was learned that the Count actually lopped off sous from the laundry bills when he and the Countess were spending millions of francs like water on other things.

Zeigler generously charged only five per cent on the sum he loaned the Castellanes, Jacobson held, but that the Countess seemed unable ever to keep out of financial difficulties.

MAYOR FAVORS MIDNIGHT HOTEL LIQUOR LAW

Change Would Mean Erection of New Hostelries, and Would Add to Boston's Prosperity, Declares Fitzgerald.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald believes that the proposed change in the license law, by which about thirty hotels in Boston will be given the right to sell liquor until midnight, and which is to be decided by the voters at the city election, should be adopted.

The Mayor says that the change would bring more business to Boston, that it means the erection of many hotels and a general increase in the city's prosperity.

"I know of several real estate men who are contemplating the building of large hotels if the law is accepted," said the Mayor to the BOSTON AMERICAN.

"The licenses are limited to about thirty first-class hotels in Boston. No first-class hostelry need be without one, and no hardship is worked on the retailer."

The question of the change in the license law is the most important that will be decided by the voters at the next city election. It has created intense interest among all classes, hotel keepers, business men and those who regard the extra selling hour as needful to the pleasures of theatre-goers.

The BOSTON AMERICAN has sought the opinions of many citizens. The views of many are presented in to-day's interviews. Both sides of the argument are given without prejudice.

Persons who desire to express themselves upon the subject are requested to address their communications to the License Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN.

Anonymous communications will not be considered. Letters on this subject intended for publication must be signed with the name and address of the writer. Correspondents are requested to tell why they favor or oppose allowing the hotels to sell liquor until midnight.

What Men Say of 12 O'Clock Law

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

"I think it would be in the interest of the city of Boston to allow the sale of liquor until midnight. The privilege accorded by that law is never taken away from the city legally. Only the mistake in the placing of a semi-colon made the present law possible.

"If the midnight law is passed, it will mean more hotels in Boston. I know of real estate men who are contemplating the building of several large hotels if it is passed. It would also mean a large employment of labor in the hotels to be erected.

"It is an invasion of personal liberty to stop the sale of liquor at 11 o'clock. It is no idle fancy that people are driven from Boston because of the present law. Theatrical patrons are denied the privilege of drinking after the theatres are out and that business is also hurt.

"Every city in the United States of large size permits it. No effort has been made to have either the repeal in the communities think it a necessity and sensible enough.

"Temperance interests will be benefited by the midnight law. It is frequently occurrence for people to order a case of beer or quart of rum just before 11 o'clock and stay drinking it afterwards until they are drunk clean through.

"The acceptance of this act extending the time in which liquors may be sold by innholders does not mean that hotel bars will be left open until midnight. It does, thirty states that certain hotels may, with the consent of the licensing authority and upon the payment of an additional licensing fee of $1000, sell liquors between the hours of 1 and 12 at night, except on the Lord's Day, to persons bona fide resorted to the hotel for food or lodging, but only in the dining rooms of the hotel. It does not permit the indiscriminate sale of liquor up to midnight.

"Only such license may be granted for every twenty thousand or fraction thereof of the population. This limits the licenses to about thirty in the city of Boston, and, as was intended by the law, limits the number of such licenses to the number of first-class hotels. No such hostelry need be without one and no hardship is worked on the retailer. It is simply a return to the conditions which existed before the discovery of the celebrated "semi-colon" in the old law, by which discovery the sale of liquors by hotels up to midnight was stopped.

"Boston needs every encouragement to bring trade and commerce here, and to bring that business, the business men must be accorded the same privileges that they are according in other communities.

"To the wage-earners, the erection of more hotels means considerable. The new Belmont hotel in New York City engages 1,500 people, which is a larger payroll than the average Massachusetts town of 11,000 people has. That comparison shows what the hotel industry amounts to.

"I think it will be a hard blow to Boston's future if the 12 o'clock law is not repealed."

Rev. Charles A. Crane,
No. 142 Berkeley street.

"The 'twelve o'clock law,' which is to be voted upon soon in this city, has in it much more than the mere privilege of keeping open till midnight for the sale of rum in thirty selected saloons. In this proposition is included the retention of the business hours of certain saloon keepers who have been long accustomed to violating any laws which stood in their way, and this prosecution has been given them by and legislators. The bill as originally passed was much more satisfactory than the bill as recommended by Governor Guild.

"Anything tending to extend the time would be a benefit to Boston. It would benefit the economical and the thrifty interests as well as the liquor dealers.

"It is not so much the extra receipts that would be taken in by the liquor dealers as it is the accommodation that it would give the people who have clamored for this privilege.

"While I would not be completely satisfied by the 12 o'clock law that would restrict the licenses to only a few of the prominent hotels, I think it would be better than no midnight law of any kind. I believe in accepting what we can and still fighting for more liberality.

"The poor man should have the same privileges as the rich man and should be able to get his glass of beer in the afternoon or his cocktails as well as the rich. I do not believe that any such line of distinction should be drawn between the liquor dealers as is proposed."

Charles K. Darling,
United States Marshal, Federal Building.

"I have not given the matter much consideration, and it would not make much difference to me one way or the other. It seems to me that from a moral standpoint if hotels are allowed to keep open until 12 o'clock, I see no reason why they should not be allowed to keep open until 12:30, but of course I haven't given the subject enough consideration to decide one way or the other."

William J. Ferguson,
Paris street, East Boston.

"I am in favor of the hotels being permitted to keep open until midnight. If the first-class hotels are granted that extra privilege, it will be a good thing to the city for many reasons and will be a great benefit to the hotel proprietors, as it will attract many traveling men who now refuse to stop in this city."

W. C. Hallett,
No. 3 Meridian street, East Boston.

"In my opinion every licensed liquor place should be compelled to close at 11 o'clock. A few traveling men and theatre parties desire to be served with liquor after that hour, but should be refused. Every body should be in bed at 11 o'clock."

P. N. Firth,
Meridian street, East Boston.

"Every hotel should close at 11 o'clock. I am in favor of the present law and opposed to the referendum."

C. Frank Cantwell,
Meridian street, East Boston.

"I can see no objection to the proper hotels being permitted to sell liquor until 12 o'clock. The temperance sentiment of this city has been considerably damaged since the hours have been ordered to close at 11."

Edward S. Brown, Surveyor,
No. 67 Pinckney street.

"By all means I strongly favor the 12 o'clock liquor law as a necessity to a city of such cosmopolitan character as Boston. Without it, Boston is behind the times. The city is ridiculed for its staidness and coldness is put back."

William E. Kane, Salesman.
No. 65 Hancock street.

"I favor the extension of the time allowed for the sale of liquor up to midnight because of the luncheon business patronage among theatre parties. This is now, traveling men and theatre patrons are driven out of the city before 11 o'clock.

Fire Commissioner Benj. W. Wells.
Headquarters, Bristol street.

"I hope the bill will be passed. I think that the majority of the people are in favor of it. I have no considered opinion on the bill and the situation certainly are. If the bill becomes a law, more money will be spent in the city and I think that's right. I can safely say that the disposal of the proposed law will not affect them."

H. W. Patterson,
Of Smith, Patterson Co.

"I am heartily in favor of the 12 o'clock liquor law. I am in favor of any injury business very much. People will not come to Boston to do business and won't their purchases, but will go through to New York, where they are treated better. Temperance cranks try to say that the 12 o'clock law would be a menace to society morals, but I know that such is not the case, as under the present law young men and most three times what the would legally. The people who frequent the saloons can usually get all they want to and then. It is a sure thing drink before 11 o'clock, but the theater people and strangers ought to be accommodated when they wish to take liquor at lunch. My opinion is that it would be a good thing for Boston to have the 12 o'clock law."

Dr. Fred A. Stiles, Veterinary Surgeon,
No. 1440 Washington street.

"I must say that I do not approve of the bill. I don't want to be listed as a temperance crank, but I do think that the whole day long and five or six hours after dark give more than enough time for men to purchase what liquor they want. The passage of the bill, as I see it, means noise and hilarity at later hours, with no good morning to the city."

George Leonard,
Interior Decorator.

MATTY BALDWIN WINS OVER BENNY YANGER

Matty Baldwin pulled down a great victory in the ring at the Lincoln A. C. last night when he won the decision over Benny Yanger, the Tipton Slasher from Chicago, at the end of fifteen rounds.

There was no questioning the award, as Baldwin led from the start and had the better of every round, barring the twelfth, when he was forced to take the count, being knocked down from a terrific body punch.

It was not the same Yanger who the fans saw nearly put Kid Goodman to the bad a year ago, as he appeared to have lost much of the vicious tearing-in tactics which made him so formidable in his career.

He seemed to have lost that fiery steam which usually put the foes on the defensive at short notice, and he was a tame object in comparison to the peerless exhibition he gave here.

HIS RIGHT HAND USELESS.

His right hand might have been tied for all the good it was to him in the bout, as he continually held it in position, but not for action. A few times he let it go, and he drove to the body with good effect, but always it was his left hand with which he did say leading.

He claimed after the bout that he put his right hand practically out of commission in the third round, when he struck Baldwin on the elbow with his wrist.

Because of his grand fight with Kid Goodman, Yanger ruled a strong favorite with the talent, and there was little bald money in sight, awarding the odds up to 10 to 7 on Yanger, but it swung around at even by the time the bell rang.

That the wise ones got a decided bump was due to the fact that they underestimated the ability of the home boy, which was further substantiated when Jack Culey, manager of Yanger, after the bout remarked that Baldwin was a better boy than he was given credit for.

TRIUMPH FOR BALDWIN.

It was a grand triumph for the little Charlestown slugger, who was seen at his best. His continual feinting and clever arm work kept Yanger guessing, and made it easy for Matty to catch him on his leads.

Not satisfied by getting to Yanger with rapping hooks with his left to the body and right chops to the head, he kept pounding the kidneys in clinches and had Yanger's back badly bruised before the affair was over. The constant banging did not help the Windy City lad any.

Yanger was supposed to have marvelous speed, but he must have wasted it on the way East, as he tried to play cautious for most of the distance, with Baldwin doing about all the forcing. Before the bout had gone half the journey Baldwin was so far in front that nothing short of a knockout would have won for Yanger.

It only took Baldwin a few rounds to size and show a flash of his winning style. He said Baldwin could not hit. He got going like a whirlwind, swinging with either hand without letting Baldwin set, and the local boy was driven into a corner, where he slipped down, helped along by one of Benny's swings.

He was on his feet again, but Yanger mixed it fast, and caught Baldwin with a right to the body that sent him down to the mat.

BALDWIN TOOK COUNT.

Baldwin was wise and counted down for the count till he could get his bearings sufficiently. The crowd thought that Yanger was about to get on the finishing touches, and something might have happened in that direction, but for the bell, just before any damage was done.

Baldwin was game enough and smart enough to stand the toughest kind of a battle, and he carried the fighting along slowly, using good judgment the whole distance. He showed a better left hand than he of late previous bouts, doing a great amount of execution on the head and body. He was full of action from the first bell, always ready to do the forcing, and never slacked up in his speed.

Both boys never had any trouble coming down to the hottest mixups. Sec Yanger dropped a lot of the former prestige by continually going into a clinch from Baldwin's effective body work.

George Dixon, the veteran boxer, was in Baldwin's corner, and coached the youngster along to victory.

YANGER THE LIGHTER.

Before the boys went into the ring Baldwin disputed Yanger's record and he got on the scales, reaching 131 pounds with his fighting togs on, which made him slightly lighter than Baldwin.

In the semi-windup Kid Kurtz, the newsboy champ, was defeated by Freddie O'Brien of Chelsea in four rounds.

O'Brien was too shifty, and by keeping away from the stiff punches of the paper champ, picked off the decision.

BALDWIN-YANGER FIGHT BY ROUNDS

ROUND TWO—Matty smashed a left on the face for a starter. He landed Yanger a stiff left which made Benny blink hard. Yanger started to come in, but Baldwin caught him with right and left to body. Matty forced and received a left well on the body. As Yanger started to step in Matty crossed his right to the jaw, almost putting Yanger off his feet. Baldwin put over his double left and jolted with right in clinch. Baldwin blocked with left to wind and jabbed twice before the bell came.

ROUND THREE—Matty aimed for the wind with straight left and duplicated it. Matty missed wide with a swing and Yanger caught him with left to body. Matty slipped and drove right to body. Both boys went wild in passing out rights, failing short on dishing. They kept away till Yanger got wound up and forced Matty back on the ropes at the gong.

ROUND FOUR—Baldwin peppered with his left and then swung a wicked left which grazed Yanger's body from the waist line up. Baldwin got over a right for a jolt but lacked steam. He put right to body and left to head. Yanger forced Matty to left to Yanger's face. Feinting with right, he crashed over his left, which took a chance and landed. Matty's right found Yanger on body. He did it again and followed with left to head. Matty missed with left.

ROUND SEVEN—Baldwin swung left for head, and in the clinch jolted with right. Matty pushed away with left to body and kept busy on the kidneys with right. Yanger got moving and drove Matty to the ropes. Benny let go his right and Matty bumped into it with a thud. Yanger's right swung Benny as he "tin-canned" for a couple of seconds. Baldwin quickly started left to head and snapped left hook in on ribs. He made Yanger look bad by shoving with right and left. Yanger retaliated with a hard right to body. It was his only effort in the round, as Matty showered on the lefts before the finish.

ROUND EIGHT—Baldwin showed his left hand to advantage, as he stabbed and hooking. He put in two straight ones as Yanger came in, and followed with left to the body made Benny wince with pain. Matty made it more uncomfortable by uppercutting in the clinch. Baldwin endeavored to make Benny stop and the Westerner stalled in the clinch. Yanger got a bit of life and jabbed, following it up with a right cross to the jaw. After Matty jabbed slim Benny again put in his deadly right. It was a jabbing duel to the finish.

ROUND NINE—Yanger took the initiative and swung on the body. He started to repeat but Matty caught him with left to the stiff punches of the paper champ, picked off the decision.

A "PEERLESS" MATCH IS MADE BY M'KENNY

BY J. C. KERRISON.

Two automobiles dashing through the streets of Revere, Chelsea, Charlestown and Boston attracted the attention of the people along that route early yesterday afternoon.

The first car bore the sign "Just married. We are on our way. Let us know where," and contained Mr. and Mrs. Percy Leo McKinney, who, at once, had embarked upon the sea of matrimony. The second car also bore a sign calling attention of the multitudes to the party ahead, and carried friends of the bridal couple. While there was but one car in the rear of the bridal couple its occupants made sufficient noise for half a dozen, and there were none abroad at that time whose attention was not called to the bridal party. It was a fast ride from Revere to the Essex House, where the bridal breakfast was served, and although "Jack" Rose was at the wheel of the first Peerless he could not get away from the car driven by the groom's brother, James McKinney. The only thing which prevented speed was the presence of the business District of Boston, the heavy traffic which was encountered and exciting to all save the bridal couple. Their eyes were dilinging devotedly with fellow-feeling and what not, so no one could possibly subdue their love to which it was being plighted.

Arriving at the Essex a royal welcome was given the couple, and during breakfast the bride and groom were not permitted to forget the seriousness of their action. The grand finale came when the couple started to board the Merchants' Limited for New York. A shower had they emerged from the hotel than the men from the Peerless swooped down on them, covering them with confetti, old shoes and everything imaginable, performing escort duty to the train and the very car in which they had seats. It was certainly a grand honeymoon voyage.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. H. Williams, in Beechmont, by Rev. Mr. Marks. Mr. McKinney is prominent in the local motoring field, he for several years being the engineer in charge of the local mechanical department of the Peerless Motor Car Company, while Mrs. McKinney is one of the prominent young society women of Revere. They are now on their honeymoon, which will carry them as far West as Pittsburg and Cleveland. The Peerless wedding IPs was a large and elaborate one.

A commission divided against itself is the interesting news promulgated by the Boston Park Commissioners. One of its members says that the committee considering the closing of Commonwealth avenue to motor traffic and the other two members say that no official considerations of the same have been given. Still it is possible the matter may reach such a stage. If it does a public hearing will be given. Then the motorists will have an opportunity to show

HALL TO SEND STABLE OVER MATINEE LINE

When the amateur circuit starts in 1907 Boston will be represented by a very strong stable in Frank G. Hall's three horses he intends campaigning from the start at Cleveland down the entire line of matinee meetings.

The leader of the string will be the trotting gelding, Kim, 2:15¼, which Mr. Hall just purchased from the Ohio trainer, Pat Shay, and now has in charge and will express at his new home. He will be particularly headed for the $2,500 gold cup event at Cleveland for trotters, given over the 2:15 class.

Kim was foaled in 1900, and was sired by Elyrin, out of the dam of Lorna Mc-Gregor, 2:17¼, by Robert McGregor. He was very successful the past season in Western circuit events, and is now said to be greatly limed to 2:08¾. Being absolutely sound there is no doubt but he should not be even faster next year.

The other two trotters Mr. Hall will take along are Corn Wilkes, a green record 2:20¼ trotter by Wilkes, dam Corn Silk, by Rapid Transit, record of 2:22¼, and Lady Lexington, by Lexington, dam Lady Lee, record of 2:22¼, both winners at the Readville distances last Summer.

MICHIGAN MAY COMPETE IN THE EAST

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Michigan, the football and track champion of the West, will apply to the Intercollegiate track and field championship committee for admission as a member of the Middle States body, according to present plans. Michigan athletes have already competed in the Penn games of the Quadrangular, Pennsylvania, and they have landed the championship in the relay run. The fastest of the conference rules committee of the West have bound down the Wolverines so that they will not be able to compete in the East as well as their Eastern rivals, as it is claim that they feel that Michigan is competing with Pennsylvania, Harvard, Princeton and Yale in the relay games.

"It is too late for them to take action on it this season, they expect to be able to make arrangements next season.

The Harvard-Yale game will be reproduced at Mechanics' building on the Irwin score and field board next Saturday, while the game is being played at New Haven.

A direct wire will connect Yale field with Mechanics' building. A football will be in the same relative position as on Yale field, and all plays will be shown and announced as quickly as made.

DELMONT WILL MEET DUFRESNE

Albert Delmont, through his manager, Jim McQuillan, has written to the BOSTON AMERICAN that he will accept Dufresne's challenge of Kid Dufresne of Canada to box ten rounds at 135 pounds, and is ready to supply the $1,000 backing that the respondent Quebec man has declared he is willing to put up on Dufresne. Delmont is now in Canada finishing up and here with the BOSTON AMERICAN any time.

HARVARD TEAM GETS A MIGHTY SEND-OFF

Over 2,000 students fed by a brass band assembled at Harvard square almost 7:30 o'clock this morning to give the Harvard team a rousing send-off before leaving on the 8:50 train for New Haven. Led by John White, '07, who was assisted to the top of a car where he might be plainly seen, each man and coach seen to enter the special cars dressed up in the scarves to carry the men to the Back Bay station, was given a mighty cheer. It was simply a repetition of the grand meeting at the Harvard football team has ever received from a send-off as the team which left this morning.

Coach Reid, before stepping aboard the car, said: "While I'm making no predictions about the game on Saturday, I can faithfully say that Harvard has never sent a team in better condition to New Haven, I think, with the exception of the 1901 eleven, if in the best Harvard team that the college has put out in years.

"The line-up those who will go to New Haven to-morrow was announced last night. Twenty-seven players will be taken. They are:

Ends—Macdonald, Starr, Orr, Bird and Kennard.

Tackles—Osborne, Pierce, Hoar and Inches.

Guards—Burr, Kernberg, Brock, Gilmore and Warren.

Centres—Parker, Fraser and Sourse.

Quarterbacks—Newhall and Hall.

Halfbacks—Wendell, Lee, Lincoln, Lockwood, Mason and Gilder.

Fullbacks—Woodell, Edmunds and Gray.

The coaches who will go down with the team are head coach Reid and Bowen, Marshall, Lewis, Cutts, Bowditch, Knowlton and Cranes. Manager Bernheim and his assistants, Dutcher and Bigelow, will also accompany the team.

The big clubhouse at Morris Cove, has been put round and it is promised that the team, and the regular staff of chefs and waiters at the Harvard Union will look after the wants of the team.

YALE THREATENS TO QUIT WITH HARVARD

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 22.—Protests from Yale alumni all over the country are pouring in against allowing Harvard to dictate to Yale in the fall up of officials for the Yale-Harvard game, and then a time limit put on the annual event.

These protests say that the old ery of Harvard's unfairness and to say anyone Yale-Harvard football unless Harvard has new coin clubfish way is about played out, and that if the two colleges cannot agree to a set of officials without resorts to threats of cancelling a game if one or the other does not have its own way, it time to stop and take a down breath.

The Harvard action was all the more reprehensible because it was made not only by Head Coach Bill Reid, but by the advice of half a dozen members of the Harvard athletic committee, who had accompanied him to Springfield to see that the Crimson got its selection of officials for the game.

Another thing that rankles in the breasts of the Yale football men is that, while the Yale delegates at the conference on the selection of officials gave out no names and decided as they had agreed as soon as Bill Reid returned to Boston a full list of officials was handed out in newspapers, friendly to Reid.

This action in the selection of the Yale delegates when it was announced in the Boston newspaper yesterday and that failing to do so Harvard would refuse to play the game on the date set, also had said Yale tickets in Boston.

The game will be squarely under the watch. Yale would not have balked at playing the game on Thanksgiving, as suggested, and referencing plans.

Coach Reid Rockwell insisted to-day that the claim that Yale insisted upon Paul Dashiell being an official was absolutely untrue. "Dashiell's name was not once used personally during the conference," he said.

Guessing over the places in which the shaking will be handed out in the field trips, Captain Morse, Vendler and a third candidate will be tried out systematically out of the race because of his bad showing in the Brown game, which was about on even terms for his place. Bonar Bliss, Captain Morse and Vendler will be used, it is thought likely that he will start the game with Bonar Bliss.

The rain poured during the night, and despite the fact that the gridiron was covered with straw, the ground was soggy. It will be heavy and slow on Saturday.

The advance guard of rivals and scouts had the Present House at Morris Cove in apple pie order to the morning for the reception of the squad of Harvard players about 9 o'clock this afternoon.

Betting has fallen back to even terms. Much Harvard money came here early in the week, but odds were demanded. The flopping of Yale money has been reported of Rosine and Captain Morse has sent Yale to even terms.

Brown Practiced Hard.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 22.—There was no let up in the work at Andrews Field yesterday for the Brown team, he coaches driving the men harder than on Tuesday. The scrimmage before the end of the mid second teams lasted for over an hour, and the signal practice that followed. The practice was hard and fast, and on the whole Brown showed a decided improvement over the form shown Tuesday.

Coach Robertson kept the men in the field in football togs and got into the game, himself, and showed the players how Westervelt has a slight cold and was not in the game yesterday. Cobb playing in his place. The work of the entire backfield made the encouraging feature of the day's practice.

LANGFORD BEAT PETE JACKSON

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Sam Langford of Boston won the decision over Young Peter Jackson of Baltimore after fifteen rounds of ordinary fighting last night. The cause of his defeat Langford smeked in a clever right-hand uppercut to the jaw, and Jackson went down like a log. Jackson was not counted out.

In the ninth round, because Jackson used his head and barred his opponent in the stomach, Referee Dudelow reprimanded Jackson and warned him that if he did such tactics again he would disqualify him.

Peter outweighed the Boston man by at least twenty pounds, and was also a good two inches his superior in height.

Arthur Mallett is the only starter member of the Boston Terrier Club who has not yet shown. He is one of the veterans in duplum, having in years past held many positions of edge and has been introduced at the leading shows, and many in the champion class. He will send to Boston a fine string through his having awarded the original blue ribbon.

W. A. Davis of the Wyllis Kennels, Malden, has the only bitter bitch in the show. He is named General Gordon and weighs but fourteen pounds. It will be remembered that the dog won three Reds, a third and six special prizes at the Boston show last year. He is a brother to his brother to his another champion bench dog.

Messrs. Brady Brothers of the Warren Kennels, Malden, have entered Warren Wonder, owned by Leo, that has the distinction of being the first American bred Frenchie to win the championship. Three of her puppies have been sold for $475.

Frank Gay Moseley of Boston is getting into the dog line quite extensively. Recently he purchased of George Thomas the cocker bitch Modern Butterfly, and from Roy B. Rabor the fox terrier bitch Knollwyn Lottey, with a litter of three by Ridge Tip Racer. He intends showing Butterfly at the Hartford and Providence exhibitions.

The Scottish Kennel Club has recently passed a regulation which reads: "No dog shall be eligible for challenge certificates or other special prize offered by the dog club to any person who has not been the owner of such dog and registered as such for a period not less than six days or classes considered in breed."

The Boston terrier boy, Ellsworth Fi Fi, by Ch. Benito Peach, out of Ripsaw, is rapidly making a name for himself as a sire. Among the get of Fi Fi which have been whelped since January 1st in all he has won over fifty specials. In his initial appearance at the Boston show he won the much coveted dog as Sullivan's Punch, Ch. spoiler, Ch. Bingo and Ch. Pilot.

L. Whitaker of Chelsea reports that his imported bitch puppy by Dick Crater, Jr., son of the ex-leader of Tammany Hall, has sailed to spend Christmas with his father in Ireland and would have taken his place at the Boston Roadster show for exhibition had not the quarantine laws of England prevented.

George Thomas has sold to Alice Hopkinson a nice team of wires, four imported, and the American bred for Peasants.

Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons's Startling Proposal Stirs Up a Hornet's Nest of Opinions on the Question—

SHALL "TRIAL MARRIAGES" PREVAIL?

Flood of Letters Received from Readers

WHEN ELSIE CLEWS PARSONS'S radical propaganda, advocating trial marriages, to be terminated at will by either party to the contract, has precipitated a flood of letters from readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Opinions on the startling new plan vary widely, as the following letters indicate. They are published in response to this request:

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I am somewhat interested in the idea of trial marriages, and while I sympathize with those who protest against it, I still see there is a chance for an argument, and that Mrs. Parsons should not be condemned for her ideas. I would suggest that you open your columns for such a subject and be perfectly fair in your editorial on it. I think your editorials are quite a test of your ability, and coupled with illustrations, must convince all but those who will not be convinced.

J. HADLEY.

No. 182 River street, Cambridge.

Below are a few of the many letters received. More letters will be printed. If you have something to say, write on your views briefly, say in a letter of not over 200 words, and address Home Magazine Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80-82 Summer street.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

A good girl is wooed. She approves of the wooing man. She returns his love. She awaits with fond expectation his declaration of love. He proposes. As she tremulously prepares to accept him he remarks that then they will marry simply "on trial."

You might as well take love's young dream and hit it with a piece of lead pipe. Why not?

MATTHEW L. RONDERSON.

Brookline.

PROVIDES ESCAPE

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

As a wife who has suffered more in the bonds of matrimony than ever woman was meant to endure, I beg to advocate Mrs. Parsons's plan recommended by her. Her motive is one of those cases secured, as there are really no legal grounds for it. But I am tied to a man who, though to me very well and is kind, is otherwise distasteful to me.

Must I suffer the disgrace of a misnated union all my life? Why should not I, after a trial marriage, which is not a trial in the marital bond and private way, free to seek happiness again?

Roxbury. MRS. J. W. W.

CRIMINALLY HARMFUL

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

The criminally harmful suggestion by Mrs. Herbert Parsons for "trial marriages" marks only another step in the steadily progress toward degeneracy. The sanctity of the home, of domesticity and of wedded life, a sanctity which flourished in its purity a few generations ago, is now one has to read only the "divorce" columns newspapers to see this. Divorces, separations, made all too easy, are bad enough, but this trial marriage scheme surpasses the most lawless ideas of unrestricted love and restrictions at once, and of the irresponsible men and women have full sway.

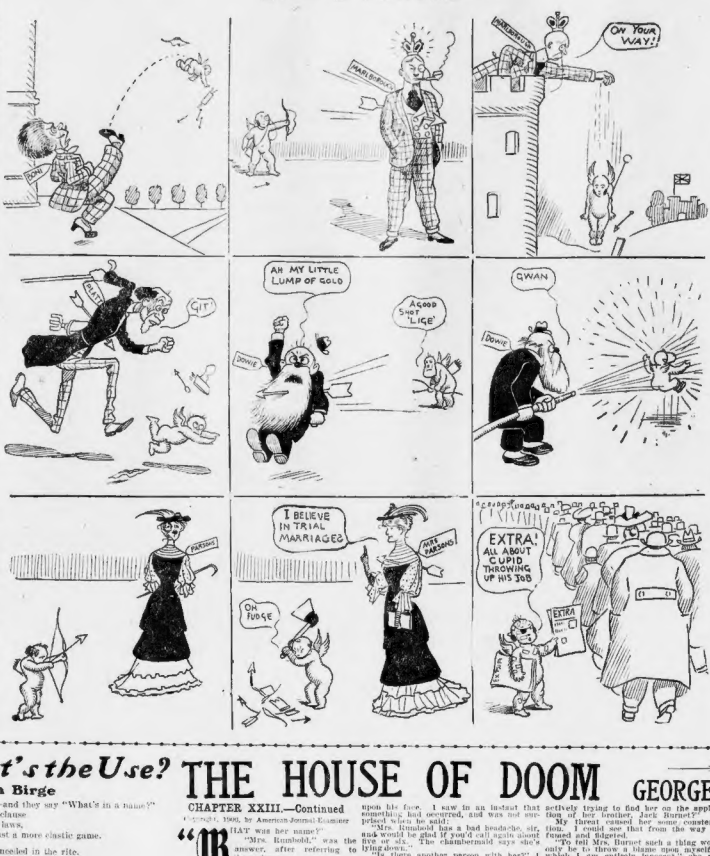
THE TROUBLES OF CUPID

BY T. E. POWERS



Cupid--What's the Use?

By Morton Birge

MRS. HERBERT PARSONS—and they say "What's in a name?"

Proposes just a hopeful clause
To benefit our marriage laws.
And Cupid sees he's up against a more elastic game.

"I," says Mrs. Parsons, "is most needed in the rite.
It's just the word to regulate
Or, present doleful marriage state,
With 'if' the wedded woe may end in dissolution bright."

"MARRIAGE Trials," which Mrs. P. prescribes for those who fail
To harmonize in married life,
But beat the cat and dog for strife.
Why give the knot to Cupid's court and jump the wedding bail.

DON'T be worried if your wife and you do not agree,
For your connubial interest.
Was simply an experiment.
Just call it off and say to her, "The single life for me."

ARGUMENT is not allowed. Divorce you do not need.
The street but chauffeurs rig"
Can knock the opposition stiff.
And Church and State amount to less than one hole, broken reed.

SMART, NEW EVENING WRAPS

A SMART evening wrap is indispensable to worn with either if the purse be long enough, is the question.

In getting fur for this purpose it is well to get the best possible, for a detachable fur collar comes in for many occasions, and a cheap one is an imitation fur does not stand even rigid wear for one season, and one of these collars should last a long time with good care.

Hudson Bay sable is an excellent choice, although white fox is a great temptation because of the fluffiness that seems just meant to frame a young, pretty face. Gray or dark red are the two best for the shoulder, but not mentioned

The Greatest Human Necessity and THE CHEAPEST

Man Needs AIR Most of All, Then Water, Then Food

The average human being can, AND DOES, deceive his stomach very often with the wrong kind of food and drink.

He suffers by the deception and does his work less competently because of it, but he worries along somehow, and, if the deceit is not kept up too long, manages to get back after a while into a fairly good condition for his duties.

BUT THE LUNGS REFUSE TO BE FOOLED.

A powerful, well-nourished man, it has been shown by experiments, can live for more than thirty days without food, if he is given plenty of water.

He can live for five days without food and water.

BUT WITHOUT AIR HE CANNOT LIVE FIVE MINUTES.

More than half of humanity is continually in search of health—the one thing without which there can be no real happiness.

Rich and poor alike spend all they can afford to spend trying to be cured of the maladies which are so easy to contract and so hard to get rid of.

It never occurs to most of them that the best PREVENTIVE of chronic diseases is abundance of pure air, and THAT A PREVENTIVE IS FAR BETTER THAN ANY CURE.

In a city like Boston pure air is not always within reach, especially in the houses where thousands of people are compelled to live and work and sleep.

This is all the more reason why every one should make an extra effort to get all the air possible when there is an opportunity to get it pure.

If you work in an ill-ventilated room and sleep in a back tenement, ride on the platforms of the cars as you go back and forth, KEEP OUT OF THE SUBWAY WHEN YOU CAN USE THE SURFACE OR ELEVATED CARS, and when walking take as many full, deep breaths as you can.

Luckily, Boston is so situated that the air of the streets cannot be very bad.

Fresh supplies continually blow in from the sea.

There is nearly always a breeze to carry away the air polluted by thousands of lungs and replace it with air from which the oxygen—the part of it you need—has not been extracted.

The lungs cannot and WILL NOT do their work unless they are well fed with oxygen. It is, of course, impossible for the inhabitant of a great city to feed them PROPERLY, but good supplies of air at intervals are better than no adequate supplies at all.

To keep the lungs in good condition, and by means of them the blood and the whole system, it is necessary to LEARN TO BREATHE—a thing which few people have taken the trouble to do.

The chest muscles must be made to expand more readily by constant deep breathing. You must learn to use ALL your lungs when you are in the open air, instead of a part of them. The air and the vital principle it contains must be made to penetrate to the farthest recesses of the wonderful system of cells that make up your breathing apparatus.

It is the oxygen that drives out the disease germs, which are always ready to collect into an army sufficient to attack and destroy the tissues of the body.

When physicians discovered that this was true they sent their consumption patients to the open air instead of to close, badly ventilated hospitals, and as a result consumption is losing many of its terrors.

Once it was believed that only high altitudes were beneficial to consumption patients. Now it is known that any air is curative, SO LONG AS IT IS PURE AIR.

Up at Rutland hundreds of men and women have been cured of tuberculosis—consumption—of various parts of their bodies by being kept in the open air all day and all night.

The old idea that the NIGHT AIR was laden with disease has been exploded.

The quickest way to help a sufferer from wasting disease of the lungs is to make him SLEEP IN THE OPEN AIR, as well as spend all his waking hours there.

But, even if your lungs are not affected, you will be stronger and ABLER if you store fresh air in your lungs whenever you can.

If the proprietors of the sweat-shops and factories knew how much more and HOW MUCH BETTER work their employes would do if they were given all the air they needed, BADLY VENTILATED FACTORIES WOULD BE UNKNOWN.

Overwork, added to bad air, is fatal to any good results from workers. Listless, indifferent factory inmates wonder why it is that they are unable to shake off their listlessness and do enough work to earn more money.

Their employer cannot understand why they seem to take no interest, why year after year they grow feebler and more unwilling to make the extra effort he demands of them.

The employer can be readily supplied with the reason. His reeking shop is gradually suffocating his employes to death, destroying their capacity while it breaks down their health.

This argument ought to reach the sweat-shop owners, because it TOUCHES THEIR POCKETBOOKS. That is the only kind of an argument, unhappily, which affects them in the least.

In factories and tenements there should be no small windows, and, except in the very coldest weather, NO CLOSED WINDOWS. And in Winter, when it is not wise to keep the windows open, there should be some system of ventilation which would supply all the air needed.

The crime of building tenements without proper ventilation ought to be punished like any other crime of poisoning, for that is exactly what it is.

These things will all be done some time. Every tenement will be as well ventilated as the great new hotels, with their wonderful machinery for the circulation of air.

But until that time, which is still far away, people must do the best they can to supply their own lungs. DEEP BREATHING must be made a HABIT. The open air must be substituted for the close room whenever possible, and no one should sleep, or allow those whom they can influence to sleep, in a room without an open window.

The folly of mistreating the stomach has been dealt with in this column, and will be dealt with here again.

BUT REMEMBER THAT IT IS FAR MORE DANGEROUS TO MISTREAT THE LUNGS, BECAUSE THE MINUTE YOU DENY THEM FOOD THEY REFUSE TO DO ANY MORE WORK, AND YOU CANNOT LIVE FIVE MINUTES WITHOUT THEIR AID.

MR. E. Z. MARK LEARNS A NEW GAME

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

1. STRANGER—You're Mr. Mark, aren't you? Say, there is a new bunco game you want to look out for. A man comes into your office, representing himself to be your next-door neighbor, and asks you to change a one-thousand-dollar note. You change the note.

2. STRANGER—Now, the one-thousand-dollar note he gives you is perfectly good. However, in a little while the man will return and tell you he does not need the change and ask for the one-thousand-dollar note. The money he returns you IS NOT THE SAME MONEY YOU GAVE HIM IN CHANGE, BUT RANK COUNTERFEIT.

3. ANOTHER STRANGER (later) — Mr. Mark, your neighbor, Mr. Dobbs, asks if you will kindly change this one-thousand-dollar bill for him?

MR. E. Z. (aside)—Ha, ha, now here is where I get square with a bunco steerer. I'll change the note and when he comes back to play the second half of the trick I'll nab him. (Aloud) —Most assuredly, sir.

4. MR. E. Z. (to detective)—Now, you hide behind the door and when he returns with the counterfeit money you nab him. See?

DETECTIVE—Will you let me see that one-thousand-dollar note, Mr. Mark? Ah, just as I thought. Mr. Mark, that man will NEVER return. THIS ONE-THOUSAND-DOLLAR BILL IS A COUNTERFEIT.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTER—Hiram Higbsign is struck on the head as he is manufacturing pure maple syrup, and is rendered unconscious.

CHAPTER II.

WHEN Hiram came to himself he couldn't recognize his surroundings. This was not strange, as there didn't appear to be any surroundings except air. Presently he heard a voice somewhere.

"Seems to me we touched something that time," said the voice.

"Guess we did," replied another voice. Then, as Hiram wondered where he could be, he heard a surprised cry above him. "Why, there's a man stuck on our grapnel!"

"Can't you shake him off?"

Hiram felt himself jerked violently and jiggled gently, but nothing happened.

"I can't get him off," said the voice, disgustedly.

"Well, we'll have to pull him up, then," said the other.

Hiram felt himself hauled through the air until he bumped against something and landed in the basket of a balloon.

"This mug's cost us the race," said one of the men.

"Yes," said the other, disentangling Hiram; "I guess we'd better throw him out."

Hiram gazed at the earth, a thousand feet below, and shuddered.

"It won't do him much good, Smith," remarked the first speaker.

"No; but it'll do us good."

"All right, then," said the tender-hearted one, "over he goes."

Over the edge of the basket went Hiram. He tried to keep himself afloat, as he used to do when bathing, by treading air, but it was useless. He fell with terrific speed toward the earth.

Far above he heard a cold-blooded chuckle and the remark, "Pedestrians have no right to impede balloons."

Hiram continued to fall.

In the sky a cloud was floating. In the sea a boat was floating. In the village a floater was voting. In the city a mine was being floated. Everything could float but Hiram.

In the meantime, Hiram kept on falling. He was the original fall guy.

All over the world stocks, elevators, the cost of living, banks and rockets were going up.

Only Hiram was descending.

His death seemed inevitable, when an English sparrow crossed his path. Hiram, by a frantic effort, managed to grasp the bird's leg. His life was saved.

She Deplores the Degeneration of France, Due to Careless and Loose Standards of Morality

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

IT may be well to do as the Romans do, when in Rome, but I do not think it would be well for Americans to do as the Parisians do in Paris.

Our standards of morals and our ideas of right and wrong are wholly different from those of France.

It is wise to broaden one's ideas as life advances, but it is never wise to lower them.

I talked a few days ago with an American bachelor who has been residing for a considerable time in Paris.

"I came here," he said, "with the expectation of making a permanent residence in Paris. I am a lover of art and of historical places and of the beautiful in all forms of expression. I have an income which permits me to follow my inclination, and it seemed to me I could suit my tastes better in Paris than in our younger, cruder land. I have grown fonder of Paris with each month and realize that life will seem a big raw to me when I return, for I am going back."

Asked why he should return, under the circumstances he had just described, the young man replied, "I am afraid of losing all my standards of morality.

"I do not hold the same wholesome views of life I held before I came here. I am no doubt a broader and more tolerant man, but I do not want to be a more immoral man. The French ideas are not those with which we are educated.

The Point of View

"WHEN an American man leads a double life and hides the one he is ashamed to have his family know he at least preserves his mental standards, even if he violates them. He knows what is right if he is too weak to do it.

"But that does not seem so disastrous to the character as to lose all sense of what is wrongdoing and to regard it as right.

"A French mother of a charming young girl told me she should not expect any man who married her daughter to change his mode of bachelor life. She thought American mothers must abandon such demands, who had been reared with unselfish views regarding a man's domestic obligations.

"I confess that I should hesitate to marry a daughter reared with such liberal views. My American bringing up makes me cling to sweeter ideals of home life than this represents. But if I stay here I am pretty sure the ideal will grow dim or vanish wholly and that the French point of view, entertained by every man I know, and by most women, will become mine.

"So I am going home. I do not want to forget how to be ashamed when I break a moral law."

An American woman, who has been living here some years, assured me she was going home before her small son arrived at a reasoning age.

"I can imagine no disaster greater," she said, "than having my boy acquire the French point of view regarding life, domestic life particularly."

I talked with two young Frenchmen about the literature of France. Innumerable magazines and newspapers are sold here on the bookstands and in the stores which both in illustration and reading matter make the infidelity of a husband or a wife a subject of humorous comment (usually mixed with compliment) rather than criticism.

Scarcely a novel or a play is written in France which does not turn on this theme.

Paris Declining

"BUT," I said, to these young men, "it does not seem to affect the domestic life of your people, I fancy, for no doubt your homes are quite as happy and wholesome as ours in lands where such literature does not predominate."

"Alas, no," was the reply. "It does affect our society, and we regret to say that France is degenerating in many ways. Our women no longer consider motherhood desirable, and our government has found it necessary to offer rewards for those who increase the population of Paris by large families."

The death rate of the metropolis runs close beside the birth rate.

Whenever a nation begins to substitute the word license for liberality in the sex or the marriage question, its decline begins also.

Beautiful, artistic, fascinating France is surely on the descending path of greatness and power, because its young men and its young women have lost the understanding of nature's intention in regard to the relationship of the sexes.

And nothing short of a cataclysm, which will remake the earth can restore these ideals, I fear.

Little Editorials from the People

A CRIME AGAINST CHILDREN

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I desire to thank you for the prominence given to the article on child labor in the SUNDAY AMERICAN. Of all crimes against the race, engendered by our present social system, the crime against child little children is the most cowardly, and the thought that decent Americans can give it any support is depressing. I believe a solution of the terrible problem can be found in a close study of the lower picture on your editorial page. John is represented as covering a large part of the earth's surface with his hand. Do the laws of God, or nature, or even morality, sanction any such disposition of the earth's surface?

I do not think they do not. Private ownership of land is indefensible from a fundamental standpoint, and I believe that the evil of child labor is easily traceable to this same private ownership. Foreign syndicates have bought and are buying vast areas in the United States. This country will be falsely settled in the not remote future. What will be the result? A steady stream of hard-earned American gold will flow to London, Edinburgh, Paris and Berlin. This condition is surely not in accord with moral law, and of a surety is destined to pass away.
